What would you name the autobiography of your life?

Actions Speak Louder Than Words:
Put Up or Shut Up!

What is something most people don’t know about you?

I used to write and record my own songs, but I haven’t done so in about 10 years. If you’re lucky, you may just be able to hear some on YouTube. haha

What are you currently watching?

I just finished binge watching the series Ballers (HBO) and Letterkenny (Hulu).

Who inspires you?

My kids. They inspire me to be the best father and role model I can be for them, as well as others.

Who is your least favorite superhero?

The Invisible Man. For one, his super-power seems a bit sketchy and two, I can never see him.

What is the best meal you’ve ever had?

Every Thanksgiving meal is the best when that time of year comes around. Enjoying a big meal surrounded with family makes it even more enjoyable.

What is your favorite indoor/outdoor activity?

Indoor: playing games with the kids and watching a good show/movie with my wife.

Outdoor: watching my son play baseball, sitting around a campfire with my family, fishing, hunting, and boating.

What is the first concert you attended?

KISS in 2016 at The Resch Center as part of their Freedom to Rock Tour. It was awesome to see such an iconic band as my first concert. They sure did put on an amazing show considering their ages.

If you could meet anyone, living or dead, who would you meet?

My father’s mother, as she had passed away before I was born. I’ve heard many great stories about how amazing and caring she was, so it would be nice to have those same experiences with her as others did.

Who is your sports team of choice? Why?

Packers, Brewers, Bucks, and Badgers all day. I’m a Wisconsin native and sports enthusiast, so I will always remain loyal and cheer for my home teams, regardless of how they’re doing.
